Land Acknowledgement

We respectfully acknowledge that we are gathered on the traditional territory of the Champagne and Aishihik First Nations—Dän Dákwänje, the people of this land. This place is known as Dakwäkada, meaning "High Cache Place."

As you look toward the mountain ridge, you'll see Na Sha Tán—the place where the sun "sits" on the mountain. Along that ridge once stood many dakwäk'äts, or high caches, filled with carefully gathered fish and meat, sustaining families through the long winters.

Dakwäkāda was, and remains, an important gathering and crossing point—connecting people to Hutchi, Champagne, Burwash, kakshu, Klukwan, and beyond. The land tells stories of movement, sustanance, and survival.

As you take in the beauty of these majestic mount ans, hold space for the Dan Dhäl—the people who have lived in the shadow of these mountains for generations.

Picture the caches, the harvesting, the relationships, and the rhythms of life that have shaped this place since time immemorial. These people carry history, belonging, lineage, a consystem, and sovereignty. May we honour their presence, past are present, and walk forward with respect, gratitude, and awareness.
